

COMFORT SERIES® MULLING

One of the reasons Gerkin Windows performs among the best in the industry is due to our unique mulling system. Every horizontal and vertically mullied window system includes a half inch wide aluminum extrusion between each window. Just because you want a large bank of windows doesn't mean the windows should perform any less than a single window. We ensure top performance through the strength of this thermally improved extruded aluminum internal mull. Our special mulling system greatly reduces deflection, virtually eliminating window stress and allowing the window to perform at its best.
